Rhino Warrior?

Would you like to be a Rhino Warrior?

Join our team of Rhino Warriors and help raise awareness, fundraise and support rhino conservation in Africa. Rhinos desperately need our continued help to ensure they do not become extinct within our lifetime. There are so many ways you can help rhinos, including telling friends and family about rhinos and the threats they are facing or fundraise to provide funds for projects in Africa that are helping to protect rhino.

You could become a Rhino Warrior just like Hattie and Josh. Read on to learn all about the things they have been doing to help rhinos and rhino conservation; they are true Rhino Warriors.

We also have a fundraising ideas factsheet to get you started or download our postcard to send to friends and family and raise awareness about rhinos. As always if you have any questions or want to share your fundraising or awareness efforts, you can share them with us on our Facebook page.

We are @helpingrhinos on social media or email us at rhino@helpingrhinos.org.

GOOD LUCK AND THANK YOU

Rhino Warrior Hattie Williams

- 🦏 Hattie loves animals and especially rhinos.
- 🦏 She really wanted to do something to help and decided to have a cake sale to raise funds for Helping Rhinos.
- 🦏 She told all her friends and family about her cake sale, spent the day baking and hosted a fabulous sale with delicious cakes for all.

Here is Hattie's message for everyone:

"I am 8 years old and love being a Rhino Warrior from Bedford. I first started to learn more about rhinos through our family friends, Liz and George Simmonds. Liz works for Helping Rhinos. Whilst I know that I cannot do much at my age, what I can do is raise awareness amongst my friends and family about the terrible problems rhinos face in the wild. I started off by researching and writing a presentation about rhinos. Then I started an Instagram account where I share information and pictures to my followers. I intend to raise as much money as I can for Helping Rhinos after lockdown ends!"

Rhino Warrior Josh Lincoln

- 🐘 Josh is passionate about rhinos and rhino conservation and was desperate to do something to help.
- 🐘 He decided to set up a tuck shop at his school and is donating the profits to Helping Rhinos.
- 🐘 He has already raised over £300 for Helping Rhinos.

Here is Josh's message for everyone:

"I love rhinos and think they should be saved because they are magnificent animals. They do not deserve to be brutally killed and have their horn cut off. I am appalled at what some people are doing and cannot believe that in the last few decades the northern white rhino is now virtually extinct – there are only 2 females left. I run a little tuck shop in my boarding house to try and raise money for the rhinos. So please if you are reading this I beg you to donate and adopt a rhino or raise money. This will help these little wonders of this world because if we carry on like this we are going to be the generation that made these amazing animals extinct".
