White Rhino
Anatomy Quiz
How much do you know about the anatomy of a White Rhino?

We all know the white rhino is a large mammal, but read through the white rhino anatomy spider graph and learn lots of interesting new facts. Once you have read the spider graph, see if you can answer the questions below.

Once you have answered the questions, you can share them with us on our Facebook page. We are @helpingrhinos or email us at rhino@helpingrhinos.org

GOOD LUCK
1. Does a white rhino have a flat lip or a pointy lip?

2. Does a white rhino graze or browse on vegetation?

3. How many teeth does a white rhino have?

4. Does a white rhino have incisor teeth?

5. The hump on the back of a white rhino supports its head: True or False?

---

[Image of a white rhino and calf grazing in a grassy field]
6. Is a white rhino’s eyesight better or worse than its sense of hearing and smell?

7. White rhino are hind gut fermenters: True or False?

8. How long is the gestation period for a white rhino?

9. How much dung can a white rhino produce in a day?

10. What part of the white rhino is made up of the same proteins as your hair and fingernails?